Technology Addiction

Earl Ledford, LCSW, CST, CAP, CET

Technology Addictions will present the causes, impact and affects of technology-assisted addictive behaviors (process addictions). While technology addiction is a recently identified addiction that has not yet been medically classified in the DSM5 it has been linked to the widespread and rapid evolvement and use of technological devices.

Mr Ledford completed Florida State University's MSW program in December 1994. Since then he has worked as therapist in an outpatient setting, served as Program Director for The Rainwater Program for Girls, and Director of Community Based Services while employed by Crosswinds Youth Services. Since 1999 Mr. Ledford has been in private practice and started ACF Therapy Associates in 2013. He has specialized in Couples Counseling for the past 17 years. Mr. Ledford is a certified addiction professional, a certified sex therapist and a certified E-therapist. Earl Ledford, LCSW has been using technology to conduct video-based counseling for more than 18 years and has presented on many topics throughout the State of Florida.
